Saint John

NEW BRUNSWICK | BAY OF FUNDY PORT DAY

Getting ashore

Saint John, New Brunswick, is a different port from St. John's, Newfoundland. Cruise ships may use Marco Polo, Diamond Jubilee or Long Wharf. Confirm your assigned berth and route to Uptown aboard.

A local day

Explore Uptown architecture, shops, the City Market and the waterfront. Check market and individual vendor hours. Harbour Passage provides a waterfront walking option toward Reversing Falls. Distance, hills and surfaces vary; choose a route for your pace or arrange transport.

Tides and regional outings

The flow at Reversing Falls changes with the Bay of Fundy tides; what you see depends on timing. St. Martins sea caves, Fundy Trail Provincial Park and Fundy National Park are separate regional outings requiring road travel. Choose one main excursion, verify access and seasonal services, and arrange a reliable return. For sea caves, confirm the tide window and local conditions and turn back well before the tide rises.

Before returning

Agree a return time using current road travel, traffic and ship all-aboard; add a generous buffer. Confirm travel-document requirements with your cruise line and official border authorities for your citizenship and itinerary. Carry layers and use official local tide information.

OFFICIAL SOURCES | CHECKED 25 OCTOBER 2026

https://www.sjport.com/cruise-lines
https://www.discoversaintjohn.com/bay-fundy

Confirm sailing-day transport, access, conditions and ship times. This guide is not for navigation.